Julius
Julius AI

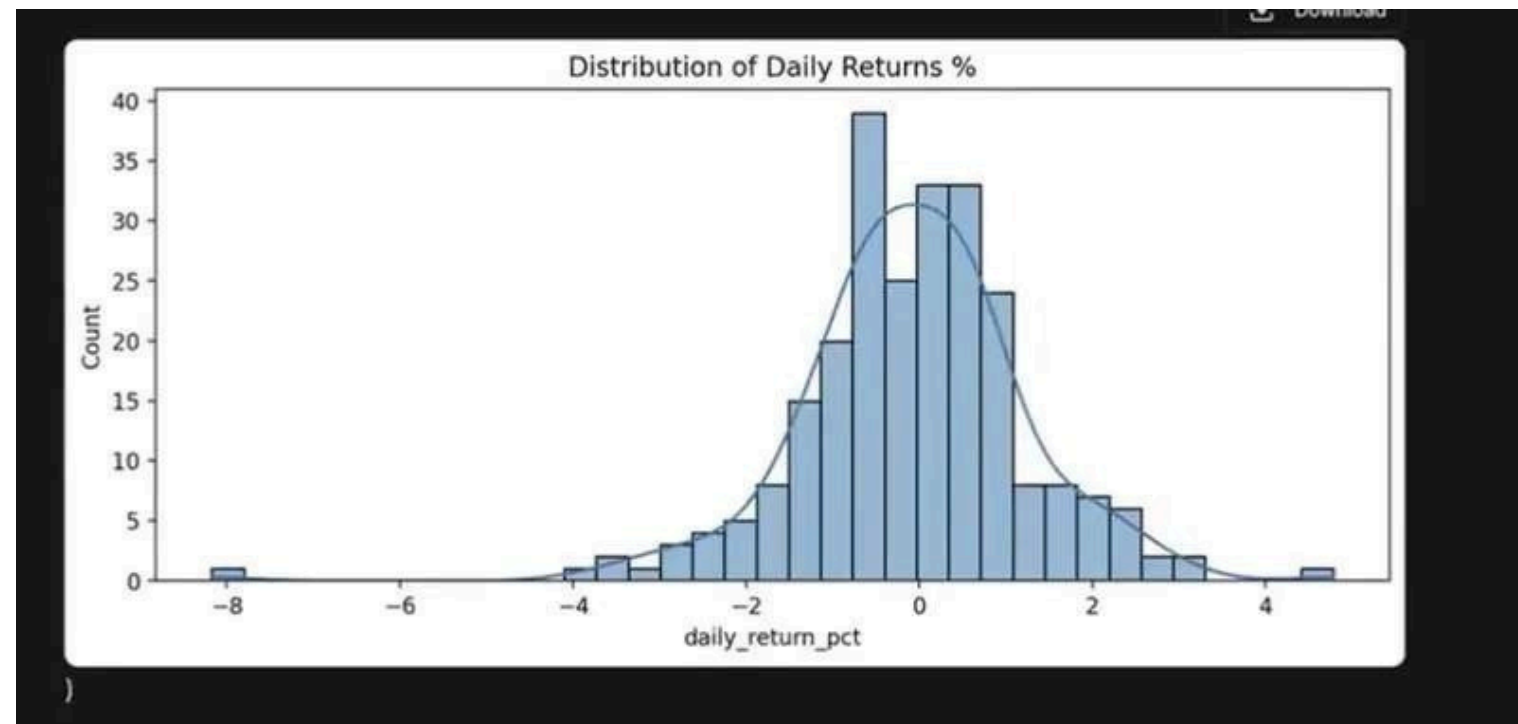

Go to julius.ai and upload your dataset.

Give the prompt as per your need and start the chat

It provides useful insights along with different types of charts that are helpful for data analysis.

3. Late 2024 was the main damage zone

The worst stretch was October to December 2024, especially November. If you were diagnosing what drove the bad annual return, that period explains most of it.

4. There was evidence of recovery after March 2025

After bottoming in early March 2025, the stock bounced, with March, April, and June posting positive monthly returns. So sentiment improved, but the recovery remained incomplete by the end of June.

5. Heavy-volume selloff days mattered

The fact that the highest-volume day coincided with the worst daily decline suggests a high-conviction selloff rather than random noise.

Bottom line

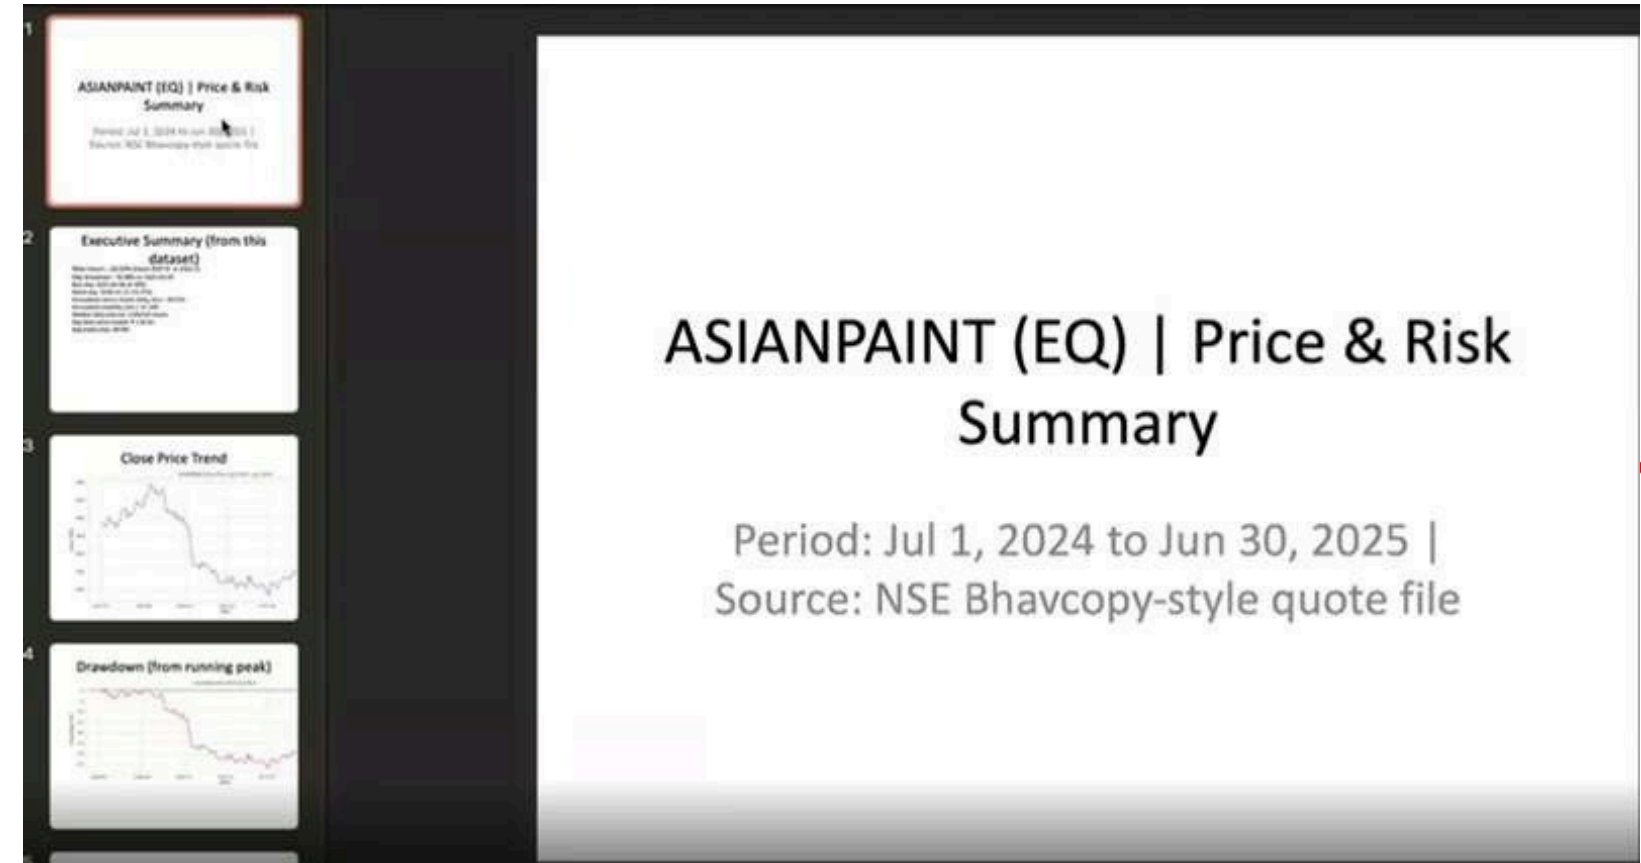

ASIANPAINT spent this period in a medium-term downtrend, with a steep correction after September 2024 and a partial recovery toward the end. The stock showed resilience after the March 2025 low, but the rebound was not enough to offset the earlier drawdown.

If you want, I can next do one of these:

You can also create a PPT containing all the useful insights.

Okay, I want to create a PowerPoint presentation file for the same as well, as I want to present it in a meeting in front of everyone in my office. Give me a link to download a PowerPoint presentation file which contains all the important visualisations that you have done out of this analysis.

Give the prompt and start the chat

Done your desired result will be ready in seconds.
